TOWNSHIP BALLOT IS LEGAL FORM, RICHARDS SAYS

Town Clerk Declares Ballot
Okay After Complete
Investigation

Rumors to the effect that the ballot Antioch township voters will use at the annual election here April 7 is not legal in its form were quieted today when Town Clerk Charles F. Richards, following his investigation into the matter, declared that the ballot as published will be official.

Controversy arose over the fact that the word "Republican" appeared as the party designation over the name of William H. Regan, one of the three candidates for supervisor. J. C. James, first to file his petition, elected to be the "independent" candidate. William A. Rosling, candidate for re-election, chose "Peoples" as a party appellation, and Mr. Regan, last to file, became the candidate in the "Republican" column.

Case is 'Exception.'

Mr. Richards, in his contention that the ballot is valid, has the support of the state's attorney's office of Lake county, and also the opinion of Attorney General Oscar Carlstrom. By referring to the revised statutes of Illinois chapter 40, section 294, relating to form of certificates of nomination, it is found that "All certificates of nomination or nomination papers shall, besides containing the names of candidates, specify as to each: 1. The office to which he is nominated. 2. The party or political principal which he represents, expressed in not more than five (5) words; however, such party or political principal shall not (except in the case of candidates for township and school district offices) bear the name of any political party which at the general election next preceding polled two (2) per cent or more of the entire vote cast in the state, or in the electoral district or division thereof, or in the municipality for which the nomination is made."

Thus it is that the exception cited in law permits the use of the name of any major party on a township or school district candidate ballot.

Makes Statement to Voters.

Clerk Richards has issued the following statement to Antioch township voters:

"Owing to rumors circulating in regard to the names of the different parties appearing on the ballot for election April 7, 1931, I wish to state to the voters that this matter has been definitely settled to my satisfaction, and that the ballot as published will be official."

The ruling that the ballot is a valid one, and the fact that the three candidates have signed an agreement to the effect that it is satisfactory to them, seems to have cleared up any anticipated trouble on that score, Richards announced today.

LEGION SPONSORS B. B. TOURNAMENT FOR YOUNGER BOYS

Invites Teams from Antioch Vicinity to Compete for Silver Trophy

A basketball tournament for boys under 16 years of age will be staged by the American Legion, in charge of G. G. Reed, newly elected athletic officer, at the high school gymnasium, on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday evenings, April 6, 7 and 8.

This is a part of the Legion's program to encourage clean sports among the younger boys, and they invite all boys from Antioch and surrounding territory, who are members of a grade school team, a Boy Scout team or a church team, to enter the tournament. Teams from Lake Villa, Warren, and other neighboring towns have already signified their intention to compete.

Silver Trophy to Winners.

A silver trophy will be awarded to the winning team, and a basketball will be presented to the second place squad.

The Legion will begin organizing for junior league baseball in a short time.

PREGENZER WINS MIAMI TROPHY

Ray Pregonzer, world's outdoor motor speed champion, is receiving congratulations on adding one more laurel to his athletic crown—that of winning the annual outdoor motor boat regatta held at Miami, Fla., and being presented with the E. H. B. Green trophy.

EX-SENATOR DIES AFTER ILLNESS

R. B. SWIFT

Rodney B. Swift, ex-senator from the eighth senatorial district, and long a prominent Lake county leader, died at his home in Highland Park Saturday, following an illness of three months duration.

He was state senator from the eighth senatorial district for two terms, four years each, retiring after his defeat by Senator Paddock in 1928. For many years he was counsel for the International Harvester company and was a prominent factor in that immense firm's expansion during the past forty years.

M'HENRY PEOPLE AGAIN ARE STIRRED OVER DAM LOCATION

Battle of Five Years Ago on Location Is Renewed
By Boatmen

The Fox River dam project, long a subject of controversy between the lower Fox river valley residents and the people of the Chain O' Lakes region, again came into the limelight this week when Representative Richard J. Lyons asked the state for an appropriation of $175,000 for the improvement.

The measure is opposed by the town river people who, in order to reach the Chain of Lakes, would have to be inconvenienced by the locks, if it were erected in the proposed location between Pistakee and McHenry lakes. They are vociferous in their protests, but are in favor of locating the dam on the present site.

As a counter argument, the Chain O' Lakes faction maintains that the dam farther up the river would be a flood relief measure of major importance, and would serve to turn loose waters in seasons of drought, as well as be a benefit to property owners and vacationists.

The late Representative William F. Weiss, in 1926 secured an appropriation for the new dam, leaving the location to the state waterways division, who selected the site between the McHenry and Pistakee lakes, thus precipitating the first fight. In 1928 the state appropriated $25,000 for the improvement of the present dam, located 3 miles south of McHenry.

TWO NEW STORES TO OPEN HERE

Antioch Fruit and Produce
Market to Be Conducted
By New Manager

The Antioch Fruit and Produce Market will re-open its doors under new management Saturday of this week. It was formerly conducted by Ben Slinger.

The new manager, Sam Levitt, of Waukegan, who has had years of experience in this line, comes prepared to conduct a first class store, with a great variety of produce. An itemized list of his first sale articles will be found in another page of today's issue.

Royal Blue to Open.

The first of April is set as the probable opening of the new Royal Blue store, which is located in the place vacated by T. A. Fawcett. Royal Blue stores are independently owned.

The store, boasting a meat market and a grocery, will be under the management of E. J. Salsiad, for many years connected with grocery stores in Waukegan and Lake Forest. He expects to move here with his family very shortly.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Mann spent Sunday in Chicago, where they attended the theatre.

Hans Hansen Is Low Bidder on Street Widening

Hans Hansen, Antioch contractor, was low bidder on the street widening job proposed at the intersection of Main and Orchard streets, it was announced by the street and alley committee following the opening of the sealed bids here Monday. Two other contractors, V. B. Dwyer, Antioch, and Johnson & Johnson, Chicago, also submitted bids. Hansen's bid was $110.30, the committee announced.

It is expected that the village board will approve Hansen's bid and let the contract at its meeting tonight.

Pure Milk Delegates Favor Base-Surplus Plan of Payment

Only Five Locals Oppose It
at Meeting of Pure
Milk Officers

Standing solid on the base question, 155 of the 160 locals in the association sending a delegate to the pure milk meeting in Chicago March 23 voted in favor of the base and surplus method of payment.

Many worthwhile suggestions were offered as to changes in rules for basic control. Nearly all had suggestions as to improvement of the rules and methods.

The committee on which Mr. Davis, Lake county delegate, served, made the following recommendations:

1. All sales, transfers or increases in amounts of base be controlled by local officers.

2. Each local take at once a choice of two following propositions: The first 5 per cent additional base available on the market be distributed by local committee to those most in need; that a local committee interview members with good base, with the idea that 5 per cent of same be given to local for redistribution.

Those in attendance from this county were: Rolla Davis, Gurnee; Chris Paulsen, Antioch; Mike Oberauf, Mundelein; August Baade, Lake Zurich; C. W. Wray, Grayslake; Ed. Bacon, Round Lake; W. I. Woodin, Mundelein; Henry Ames, Zion; Sam Dixon, Wauconda. Rolla Davis acted as chairman of the Lake county delegation, and served on the committee which finally presented the recommendation to the board of directors. C. W. Wray and Ed. Bacon presented the recommendation of Lake county to the assembly.

Mrs. R. D. Williams was surprised on the occasion of her birthday when a number of friends held a party for her at the home of Miss Ruth Williams. The evening was spent in playing bridge, after which prizes were awarded to Mrs. Lynda Buschman, Miss Mabel Brogan and Mrs. R. D. Williams. Mrs. Williams received many fine gifts.

LAUNDRY COMPANY WILL RE-ORGANIZE

Ben H. Miller Is Appointed
Receiver for Antioch
Concern

Plans for the re-organization of the Chain O' Lakes Laundry and Dry Cleaning company are being perfected by officers and directors of the institution today following the placing of the concern in bankruptcy by the federal court of Chicago and the naming of Benjamin H. Miller, Libertyville attorney and Lake county master in chancery, as receiver. Miller took charge of the laundry's affairs here Saturday, naming E. A. Grutzmacher, present manager, as custodian and manager to act during the receivership.

Drastic action on the part of the Egan Manufacturing company of Chicago to collect an unsecured account of $150 precipitated the action, it was said, when the attorney representing the laundry allowed the case to go by default in favor of the claimant. The receivership involves some $20,000 worth of machinery and other property.

Hatch Acting President.

Since the death of William J. Rooney, president, who was killed in Chicago a week ago, Frank W. Hatch, vice president, has been acting president.

Inability of the company to collect notes at maturity has proved a handicap in the operation of the business since it was started last July, but with the collection of these overdue securities and the advent of better times generally, the new organization when effected will have every reason to look forward to the ultimate success of the business which is considered by stockholders to be fundamentally sound.

M'MILLIN HEADLINES WRESTLING SHOW AT COLISEUM MONDAY

Big Jim Will Meet Zaharias
in Wind-up of Doc
Krone's Card

Promoter Doc Krone is 4 up and 1 to go on his 5-match wrestling card to be presented next Monday night at the Coliseum, featuring Jim McMillen, Illinois boy, against George Zaharias, tough and tumble grappler from Colorado.

Krone announced today that he has signed Karl Pojello, clever Chicago man, to go against "Buzz" Bartley, 6 feet, 1 inch, 220-pound Oklahoma giant, who claims the mat championship of the Sooner state. Pojello hasn't lost a match here this season and has a large following. He is a Lithuanian and formerly held the world's light heavyweight championship.

When McMillen steps into the ring against Zaharias, he will be backed by a cheering section that may make him think of the days when he was a football star, along with Red Grange, at the University of Illinois. The main-spring of the cheering body will be George Halas, manager of the Chicago Bears professional gridiron team, for which Jim played after his graduation from Illinois.

Through Halas, McMillen's admirers have asked for a large section of seats and George may even be persuaded to lead a few cheers. It will provide a collegiate atmosphere and McMillen may be expected to oblige with a few flying tackles which he has transferred from the gridiron to the wrestling game. Big Jim originated the flying tackle in wrestling and through this novel attack has won many matches.

The McMillen-Zaharias match appears to have caught the fancy of the fans, who have watched with interest the rise of the home-bred athlete among the bone crushers. From McMillen's home town of Grayslake, Ill., has come an order for 100 tickets.

Advance sale of 3,000 tickets at $1.10 is on at Charles Levine & Co., Room 417, 115 S. Dearborn st., and the usual Loop place.

GRADE SCHOOL PETITIONS FILED

Saturday is the last day for filing petitions for the grade school board of education. Thus far three applications have been received: S. E. Pollock for president; Leo Strang and Mrs. Roy Pierce, as members.

Mrs. Lillian Williams, who has been a board member for two terms, is retiring, and requests that another be elected in her place. Mr. Pollock at present is president of the board, and Leo Strang is serving as a member.

Slain Labor Chief

Waylaid by shotgun assassins as he left his home, William J. Rooney, business agent for the sheet metal workers' association and a veteran labor leader of Chicago, was shot to death. Police believe the murder to have been perpetrated by labor racketeers.

TOWN TEAM WINS FIRST TOURNAMENT GAME; LOSES 2ND

St. Peter's Falls Before The First Opponent in Chicago

A 1-point victory taken by the town basketball team Monday evening, when they played their first game in the central states amateur athletic union basketball championship tournament, which is being held in Chicago this week under the auspices of the Herald and Examiner, enabled the team to pass the first stepping-stone in a try for the championship, but in the second game they were outclassed.

Fire in Second Half.

The first game was played in the Broadway Armory with the Pioneer A. C., a Chicago team, and resulted in Antioch's victory, 16-15, with Folbrink as high-point man, and Bcwn, McNeil and Turk also scoring. At the end of the half, the local boys had their opponents skinned, 14-3, but they tired in the second half before the strong rally of the Chicago team.

The second game, with the 202nd Coast Artillery, state champions for three years, dashed Antioch's hopes to the tune of 35-10.

Have No Chance.

The St. Peter's team was helped before the stronger team of the E. F. Drivers, who downed them in the Loyola university gymnasium, 34-4. The Drivers are now running into the championship finals, and are slated by some as being certain to come through to the finish.

Of the 658 teams whose applications were received for the tourney, 498 played Monday evening. Nearly every available in the city was in use.

All Grade School Teachers to Re- turn Except One

Miss Elizabeth Touten Will Not Continue as Second
Grade Instructor

Only one member of the staff of instructors at the Antioch grade school will not return next year, it was made known this week by members of the school board. Miss Mary Galiger, a graduate of the Antioch township high school in 1929, and of the White-water Teachers' college this year, will replace Miss Elizabeth Touten as teacher of the second grade.

The complete staff follows:

First grade, Mrs. Fern Lux; second grade, Miss Mary Galiger; third grade, Miss Julia Stricker; fourth grade, Miss Ayleen Wilson; fifth grade, Miss Eleanor Meyer; sixth grade, Miss Isabelle Harwood; seventh grade, Miss Mildred Byrnes; eighth grade and art, Miss Alice Warner.

It is quite certain that Ralph Claiborn will be returned as principal, and eighth grade instructor, his work thus far being satisfactory.

FIRE THREATENS LOON LAKE HOMES

A grass fire in the Nelson subdivision at Loon Lake yesterday threatened several of the cottages, but the Antioch fire department, answering a summons made when the danger became apparent, quickly extinguished the flames.

BARTLETT AGAIN IS CANDIDATE FOR VILLAGE PRESIDENT

Annual Election April 21
Stirs Little Interest
Here

SEVEN ASPIRANTS FILE

In direct contrast to the spirited battle being waged by the three candidates for supervisor of Antioch township at the forthcoming annual township election April 7, there is almost an utter lack of public interest being shown in the village election that is but three weeks in the future.

According to a petition filed with Village Clerk Harry A. Isaacs a few days ago, George B. Bartlett again heads the Peoples ticket for village president. Harry P. Lowry, J. B. Drom and Charles N. Lux are the candidates for trustees, all for re-election, while James N. Dunn is named as the candidate for treasurer to succeed William A. Rosling. Under the law, treasurers do not serve two successive terms.

To Elect Library Directors

Two library directors are also to be chosen at the village election to succeed E. E. Brook and Mrs. Oliver Matthews. Mrs. Matthews was elected three years ago, following the creation of the board of trustees under the new state law when a tax of one-tenth mill was authorized for the purpose of supporting public libraries. Mrs. Matthews was one of the original founders of the library which operated for many years under the direction of the Antioch Woman's Club.

Library trustees serve for three years, two members of the 6-member board being elected each year. The candidates this year are Mrs. Louise Vos and G. A. Whitmore. The four holdovers are Frank R. King, Dr. Williams, Mrs. John Brogan and Mrs. W. W. Warriner.

Fire Tax Proposal Up

The proposition of levying a 2-mill tax for the support of the Antioch Volunteer fire department will be submitted to voters on a special ballot. Such a tax has been authorized by the state legislature and the ordinance providing that the measure be submitted to a referendum vote was passed by the village board March 16.

Spiering Stays Church as Legal Battle Continues

Is Ordered to Vacate; Files
Appeal in Circuit Court

Clarence Spiering has filed an appeal against the decision of Justice William H. Regan who ordered him to vacate the Hickory Corners church, at the hearing held here Saturday, on a forcible entry and detainer suit.

Spiering and his family broke into the church three weeks ago, following the loss of their home by fire, and have continued living there, claiming that, as the heirs of the original owner who donated the land to the congregation thirty years ago until such time when it should no longer be used for church purposes, the place rightfully belongs to them. It is Spiering's contention that the congregation has failed to fulfill the agreement, and that the land and building have not been used for religious purposes for some time.

The case is unusual and has attracted wide attention, the Chicago news sheets carrying articles as well as the more local papers.

Homer Edwards' Work Is Praised in Prairie Farmer

Homer Edwards, one of the forty-eight boys out of the total national membership of 50,000 to be elected to the degree of American Farmer, is spoken of highly in the Prairie Farmer issue of March 14.

It commends his work and industry in the poultry business. At present he has 375 selected birds, having sold a large portion of his flock before enrolling at the University of Illinois.

In reviewing his project work for four years amounted to approximately $900, and that he has $1,400 invested in his farm and placed in savings.

His many high school achievements as a member of the poultry judging team and as a member of the state team, as well as his scholarship record of 92 per cent, as an average in all subjects in high school, were commended.

AN OLD FALLACY

One of the most persistent, as well as one of the most fallacious of misconceptions, is that it is possible "to tax the rich to help the poor."

The rich, in a sense, usually means large corporations with imposing balance sheets. It is very easy to advocate increasing the tax on a million dollar manufacturing plant on the principle that the little fellow will thus be relieved of paying part of his contribution to the cost of government. But it is an inescapable fact that any tax is passed on to the consumer. If we raise the tax on insurance, John Jones will find that his premiums will be a little higher; if we add to the burden of electric utilities, Tom Brown's monthly statement will fatten. Even the largest of corporations have no magical way of getting money out of thin air.

Every business is entitled to a fair profit, and must make it if it is to continue to exist. Overtaxing business discourages industry and employment and adds directly to the cost of living for everyone. There is but one way of achieving tax relief—for government to spend less money.

ROAD FUNDAMENTALS

In a recent address, a well-known highway engineer brought out what he considers the fundamental principles that must be considered in secondary road building. Among these are:

That a highway system which does not serve everyone in an area, at all times of the year, is incomplete and inefficient.

That trunk highways should be surfaced to take care of present traffic with reasonable provision for increase, but that all other roads should be improved only in accordance with present-day traffic.

That the adoption of a single type of surface over an entire area is wrong.

That, in the future, more and more attention must be paid to planning road developments so that they may be paid for by current funds.

That highway design primarily should emphasize drainage, width, alignment, grade, and surfacing, in the order named.

That, finally, more than 80 per cent of the total mileage of American highways can be most satisfactorily and economically improved with bituminous surfaces.

These fundamentals, if followed, should undoubtedly aid communities in obtaining the greatest possible mileage of year-round, long-wearing, full-width rural roads at the least ultimate cost.

CRIME IS NO DIFFERENT

It might be a good idea to attempt to solve our crime problem by the same methods used to solve our other economic, social and industrial problems.

These problems, as soon as they appear, are given the attention of logical, scientific minds, and in addition the whole citizenry is interested. They are investigated, fully and impartially. The necessary data is collected. The various factors are debated, weighed, considered. And then, and only then, is the proper action decided upon and taken, and corrective measures applied.

The last business depression is a good example. At the present time practically every important executive of trade and industry, to say nothing of academic authorities, is busy giving his best efforts to finding a means of preventing unemployment and maintaining wages and living standards.

In contrast to this, our best minds, like the general public, have been apathetic in the matter of crime, although it is unquestionably a vital problem with both social and economic significance. There has been much talk, some thought, and nothing done, with the exception of a steadily increasing battery of laws, co-incident with a steady gain in crime. The professional reformer has been blamed for this, and justly—but the rest of us must share the blame with him.

Crime will continue to be an unsolved issue until we all deal with it as we would any other national ailment.

Wm. Richard Bufton, eldest son of William and Margaret Bufton, was born at Paris Corners, February 17, 1872. At the age of 8 he moved with his parents to Wilmot where he attended the public schools. In 1901, he moved to Clark county, where he purchased land near the city of Withee. He took an active part in the affairs of the community in which he lived.

Bufton, of Randall, and C. F. Bufton, of Kenosha.

Funeral services were held at the Wilmot M. E. church Tuesday afternoon, with burial in the Wilmot cemetery.

Complications and infirmities due to advanced age hastened the death of Friday night of Miss Anna Dugan, 77, at the Carmelite home in Kenosha. She was born November 20, 1843, a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Dugan, early settlers of Brighton, in Kenosha county. She spent practically her entire life at Silver Lake.

A sister, Mrs. Bridget Hannon, Duncombe, Ia., and a brother, Michael, of Silver Lake, survive.

Funeral services were held from the family home Monday morning.

Mrs. William Maaske, from Bristol, spent the past week with her daughter, Mrs. Alvin Holtdorf.

Susie and Kathryn Rausch visited at the home of their parents Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Riemann and family, of Twin Lakes, Ella Neumann, Hannah Neumann, and Miss Bratz, of Racine, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Gus Neumann.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Oxtoby, of Spring Grove, and Mr. and Mrs. John Nett were entertained at a dinner Sunday by Mr. and Mrs. William Volbrecht.

AUTOMOBILE CLUB OF ILLINOIS

This column is at the disposal of our readers who may be confronted with knotty legal problems pertaining to the use and operation of their automobile. Write your questions to "Ask Me" Editor, care of this paper and they will be answered in a forthcoming issue. Enclose a stamped envelope for an immediate reply.

1. I was struck by an automobile driven by a man who rented the car from a "Drive-It-Yourself" Company. Is the company legally liable for the damage done by the driver of the car? D. A. Walker.

ANS.: No. The weight of authority is that if the driver was capable of driving the car in a responsible way and if the "Drive-It-Yourself" had no knowledge that the driver was incompetent, there is no liability.

2. Does the law regard women drivers any different than men, as to liability, negligence, care, etc.?

ANS.: No. Women have the same rights and liabilities as the men.

3. My young son took our car out of the garage without my knowledge and had an accident. This was against my direct instructions. Am I liable for the damages?

ANS.: No. From the facts stated you would not be legally liable. Our courts hold that there must be a direct agency relation shown between the driver of the car and the owner to entitle the plaintiff to recover. In our opinion, however, we feel that under the circumstances where a member of the family is driving the car provided by the parents that the parents should be liable. They are, at least, morally liable.

Mrs. Frank Kruckman.

Mrs. Foster entertained her sister, of Joliet, Sunday.

James Carey, George Higgins and John Sutcliffe were in Madison Wednesday.

Wilmot chapter O. E. S. held a card party Wednesday evening.

The weekly assembly program consisted of a 1-act play, "The Peddler." The cast was as follows: William Bernhoft, Gilbert Berry, Louis Winn, John Sutcliffe, Clarisse Aylward, Jack Kavanaugh and Ruth Shottliff.

The first group of orations and declamations have been given. Eliminations will continue and the winners will represent the high school in the district contest.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"Matter" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, March 22.

The Golden Text was, "I am the Lord; that is my name; and my glory will I not give to another, neither my praise to graven images" (Isaiah 42:8).

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "Love not the world, neither the things that are in the world. If any man love the world, the love of the Father is not in him. And the world passeth away, and the lust thereof; but he that doeth the will of God abideth for ever" (1 John 2:15, 17).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "A knowledge of error and of its operations must precede that understanding of Truth which destroys error, until the entire mortal, material error finally disappears, and the eternal verity, man created by and of Spirit, is understood and recognized as the true likeness of his Maker" (p. 252).

DAIRYMEN FIND THAT OLEO LAW IS NOT STRICTLY ENFORCED

Colonel Smith to Prosecute
Concerns Selling Butter
Colored Substitutes

The fight against the sale of illegal colored butter substitutes took definite form last Saturday when several officers of the Lake County Pure Milk Association visited numerous grocery stores in Waukegan and purchased numerous brands of oleomargarine. These samples were taken to State's Attorney Smith to show what these men considered to be a violation of an Illinois law pertaining to butter substitutes. The law provides as follows:

"No person shall coat, powder, or color with annatto or any coloring matter whatever any imitation butter or substitute for butter, whereby such substitute or product, so colored or compounded shall be made to resemble butter, the product of the dairy."

"No person shall combine any animal fat or vegetable oil or other substance with butter or coloring therewith or with animal fat, or vegetable oil, or combination of the two, or with either one, any other substance or substances, for the purpose or with the effect of imparting thereto a yellow color or any shade of yellow, so that such substitute shall resemble yellow butter or shade of genuine yellow butter, nor introduce any such coloring matter or such substance or substances into any of the articles of which the same is composed."

Prosecutor Smith had previously pledged his co-operation, if violators of the law were found, and when shown the evidence, issued the following statement:

"There is a severe state law against the sale of imitation butter, and upon the presentation of evidence to me of the violation of the same, I will vigorously prosecute all offenders and use every effort to enforce this statute."

Law to Be Enforced after April 1.

When questioned as to whether they expected to issue warrants for arrest of grocers found guilty of this violation, the Pure Milk committee in charge of this investigation, namely C. W. Wray, Graylake, president; William Chandler, Gurnee, treasurer; and Thomas Champeny, Gurnee, of the Waukegan local, made the following remarks:

"The law we claim now being violated was passed in 1897. A federal tax on artificial colored oleo kept this law from being violated until a few months ago, when a means of coloring this product with natural reddish vegetable oils was discovered, so evading all federal tax. This placed a butter substitute on the market that to all outward appearances could not be told from the real article. Furthermore this product was made largely from vegetable oils, coming into this country duty free from such tropical countries as the Philippine Islands, Java and Africa. Congressional investigators estimate the cost of ingredients in manufacturing oleomargarine to be from 6.8 to 9 cents per pound, largely due to production under tropical conditions, by cheap labor, with no duties or tariffs to pay. The department of agriculture figures show cost of production of ingredients in a pound of butter produced under American standards of living to be from 35 to 45 cents per pound. Cost of manufacturing and marketing both articles are much the same. Thus for the past few months dairymen have sold their butter at a considerably less than cost, while oleo makers have limited butter at an immense profit to themselves."

"We do not wish to work a hardship on our merchants, however, as, no doubt, most of them are ignorant of their violation of this law, so we will not insist on enforcement of this law until after April 1. After that date a much larger committee will canvass the entire county, and violators will be promptly reported."

Oleo Not Barred.

"Consumers will still be able to buy margarine but it will have to be white, black, red, blue, or some other color, so that the ultimate consumer cannot be deceived into thinking he is eating that most healthful American farm product when in reality he is partaking of a vegetable oil or animal fat worth considerably less in market or nutritive value than the sum which it costs."

Actions are being taken in other counties in Illinois along similar lines. Boone county dairymen have one violation case already pending in court. Action will also be taken against manufacturers, distributors, and wholesalers, as well as retailers, of this imitation product."

DUAL BANK SYSTEM FAVORED BY BANKER

State and National Institutions
Supplement Each Other in Serving Country's Varied
Financial Needs

RECENT suggestions that all banks in the United States be under Federal jurisdiction, doing away with the chartering of banks by the various states recalls the opposition to this plan presented at the recent convention of the American Bankers Association by R. S. Hecht of New Orleans, Chairman of its Economic Policy Commission. Mr. Hecht said:

"There are just as good reasons why there should be state as well as national banks, as that there should be state as well as a national government. I do not think that analogy is far-fetched. The states should not surrender all political jurisdiction to the central government, and the local business life of the states should not be made to surrender all control over financial functions to national financial instrumentalities. There are many variations of business conditions from state to state and there are special fiscal requirements of the various states."

"It is entirely logical, therefore, that the states should retain the right to charter banks so as to mold and direct their affairs in accordance with the states' governmental and business requirements and keep them adapted to localized sentiment and conditions."

"The argument is sometimes advanced that the dual system jeopardizes the life of the Federal Reserve System because under it there is a large group of banks that are free to remain out of or to withdraw from the system. Facts and figures prove that this is a specious argument."

"It is true that there has been some shifting from national to state charters especially in cases of mergers of large national banks with banks operating under state charters. However, the Federal Reserve System was not weakened in this process because the merged institutions almost universally retained their membership in the system on a voluntary basis. Moreover, the records show that state bank members are just as good members of the system as national banks and the ratio of state bank resources in the Federal Reserve System is constantly growing. In 1922, national banks held about 65 per cent of the resources of reserve members, and state banks about 35 per cent, while in 1929, the nationals held only 60 per cent and state banks 40 per cent."

Banking Systems Help Each Other

"Reciprocally the state and national banks systems have helped each other. If the national banking law has served in some respects as something of a model code toward which state banking laws more and more have approached year by year, so have the state codes developed valuable reforms which have suggested improvements for the national laws. A great many undesirable competitive inequalities have been wiped out by this mutual evolutionary process and further progress along the line of uniformity so far as is desirable is anticipated."

"However, I do not believe that it is a disadvantage to have two banking codes that differ in some respects. It is quite probable that the state banking code in many instances represents a closer adjustment to local conditions than could be had under the national banking laws, and this is a situation that should be retained. There should, however, not be competition between the two banking codes. Competition should be between banks themselves and not between the laws under which they operate. The effort to offer too great allurements in one code as against the other could lead only to weak banking laws. But I do think that there should be the alternative opportunities that now exist which banking institutions and local business interests may choose, so that they can function or conduct their business relationships under that banking code which best meets the conditions of the times and of the place as they see them."

"This has been illustrated in both directions. In states where such unsound measures as the guarantee of deposits were operative state banks had the opportunity to escape the baleful effect of such laws. On the other hand, when a court decision was handed down in Worcester, Massachusetts, which rendered uncertain the position of trust assets acquired by a national bank through a merger with a state bank, it was a real advantage for national banks affected to take out and operate under a state charter, either on a temporary or a permanent basis, as circumstances make expedient."

"In my opinion, bankers, national as well as state, should combat the thought that conceives of depriving us of the vitalizing benefits of our dual system."

Finance Fights Erosion

Farm terracing to stop erosion is of major importance in Noble County, Oklahoma, the county agent said, and so one of the county's national banks bought five farm levels to be loaned to farmers without charge. The machines were immediately put to use and the farmers are showing keen interest in terracing. Two terracing schools were started for adults and 4-M Club boys.

Pupils Give Party For Miss Meyer On Her Birthday

Miss Eleanor Meyer was pleasantly surprised on her birthday Thursday afternoon by the students in her class who had arranged a party for her. Everyone was served with a great variety of refreshments, after which a few games were played. Miss Meyer received a number of thoughtful gifts from her pupils.

The race has been won! Row Lindbergh in the fifth grade has won the arithmetic contest. Lindbergh is the first row to average highest grades for four successive weeks. Those in row Lindbergh are: Charles Smith, Wendell Nelson, Ernestine Robbins, Charles Miller, Gail Pierce, Bernice Sherman and George Hawkins.

The fourth grade has acquired two baby turtles and two lizards for the nature study work. They were given to the class by Carolyn Phillips. The fifth grade also is making an intensive study of nature, while the second grade is concentrating on making health books.

An after-school dancing class for girls has been organized, which is to be conducted every Wednesday afternoon. The first class was held this week. The boys' class meets every Tuesday.

AMUSEMENTS

SCREEN KIDS FIGHT IN THE TARKINGTON HIT, "FATHER'S SON"

Leon Janney, the 31-year-old lad, may be a movie star, and as one subject to the adulation of movie fans and careful handling by motion picture producers, to Mickey Bennett, who is also a young veteran of the screen, Leon is just a kid like himself. There is very little of the hero-worship about Mickey. He has been in the film game too long for that, as he has been appearing before the camera for over eight years.

The fact that Janney is the featured player of "Father's Son," the talkie version of Booth Tarkington's story, "Old Fathers and Young Sons," and that Mickey was supposed to be only a supporting member of the cast, made little difference to young Bennett in so far as his acting was concerned. The script called for a fight between Leon and Mickey. That was just grand for both, no lines to study, and no rehearsals necessary.

"I'm ready any time you are," said Mickey to Leon, his eyes gleaming at the prospect of a fight for which he was to be paid. Director William Beaudine cautioned both not to hurt each other, although he wanted a fight that looked realistic, and then gave the signal for the scrap. Mickey forgot he was only supposed to be fighting mad when Leon cuffed him on the ear. He sailed into Janney and the two just stood toe to toe, slugging away at each other with vengeance in their hearts. They continued to mix it up, even after Beaudine had ordered the cameras to "cut" and did not stop fighting until the director stepped in between them.

The two contestants shook hands and then grinned sheepishly at each other. Janney had received a cut lip and Mickey's nose showed that he had forgotten to duck one of Leon's swings. Incidentally, as a result of the cut lip Janney had received, production on "Father's Son" had to be stopped for several days. The cut itself was slight, but the daily application of make-up on the wound caused an infection to set in which so puffed up the lip that further filming became impossible until medication had reduced the swelling.

Lewis Stone, who plays the role of the harsh father, and Irene Rich, who is seen as Leon's mother, bet a lunch on the outcome of the fight, but it was declared a draw. Featured members having ringside seats at the fight were John Halliday, Robert Dandridge, a little darkey who has appeared in over one hundred productions, George Reed, and Gertrude Howard.

"Father's Son" comes to the Kenosha Theatre next Sunday for a run of three days.

"Big Three" in Theatrical World Name Prize Beauties For 1931

Girls Who Eat and Sleep Well Preferred By Big Producers of 1931 Shows

By Mabel Love

HERE we have the three perfect show-girls of 1931, representing the selections of three nationally recognized pickers of pulchritude—Florenz Ziegfeld, Earl Carroll and George White. All three girls are vibrant with beauty and health, with a full quota of normal feminine curves. Girls whose all-haute photographs would resemble elongated clothespins have no chance in the theatrical world today—no chance at all. Furthermore, the moguls of musical comedy have decreed that the ladies of the ensemble must eat heartily; but sensibly, of course, in order to safeguard their health and maintain the energy that is essential for their swift topside-careen paces.

Dieting Ruled Out

Florenz Ziegfeld, whose "glorified girls" have charmed millions of theatre-goers, offers Jean Ackerman as the queen of his beauty court. Jean is exquisitely proportioned with very positive ideas about keeping fit. Once she received an alluring offer to take an important role in a movie, provided she would take off a few pounds. It seems that the movie camera always registers the figure in enlarged proportions. Jean set out to do a little fasting, but soon discovered that "thy lines were appearing in my face and that I was growing haggard in appearance." Along with pounds she lost "pep."

HE NEVER ATE MEAT

Sergt. William S. Slason, twenty-nine, has yet to taste his first scrap of meat. The sergeant, an army flying photographer at Rockwell field, is not a vegetarian because of religion or anything like that. On the contrary, his parents are farmers and lusty meat eaters. Slason could not stand the smell of meat when a baby, and he plans to go through life without it. While in France he traded meat for bread. Now he wants to find out whether lack of meat will stunt his growth.

The three perfect show-girls of 1931 do not fast or go in for silly dieting. They eat well and they sleep well. Therefore, they work well, and are beautiful. Left to right: Faith Bacon, Joanna Allen, Jean Ackerman.

"So, without the slightest compunction," Jean says, "I decided it was not worth the price, and that day I ate a pound of candy. I was so hungry I could have eaten a horse."

Earl Carroll, who boasts above his stage door that "Through These Girls I Pass the Most Beautiful Girl in the World," selects Faith Bacon from his galaxy of beauties as the one who represents his highest standards.

Mr. Carroll insists that all of his girls get plenty of refreshing sleep and good nourishing food, knowing that their work on the stage requires overabundant health and vitality.

Must Be Well-Fed

"The long weeks of rehearsal prior to the opening of a show determine beyond a doubt the girl's health standard," says Mr. Carroll. "She requires plenty of stamina. Let me tell you, to withstand the heart-breaking grind of rehearsal after rehearsal, with little time off for rest and no time at all for recreation, until she has been trained for her part."

"So the first thing we do when she is engaged is look carefully after her creature comforts. Contrary to public opinion, beautiful stage girls do not all wear costly furs and precious jewels. We have had girls successfully pass rigid requirements, who admitted to being broke. Sometimes they are actually undernourished. So, the first thing then is to see that they are properly fed. An undernourished girl always looks and feels below par." For this reason, Mr.

Carroll is opposed to silly reducing fads. He rarely engages a girl who weighs less than her height demands by acknowledged health standards.

Joanna Likes Sweets

Joanna Allen is regarded by George White as a practically perfect type of girl, and she is his 1931 offering. She is a true blonde with a well rounded form and proud of her 121 pounds. "I would not lose an ounce for the world," she told me recently. "With the tremendous amount of energy we use in our daily chore of dancing, we find more and more the need for a physical reserve of strength." Joanna is fond of sweets, and eats lots of them. Here, whether she knows it or not, she is in accord with recent findings of scientists who have found that sugar and sweet foods in general are among the best sources of the quick-energy needed by those who, like Joanna, lead strenuously active lives.

George White, who is recognized the world over as an authority on feminine beauty, insists that his girls possess stamina as well as physical perfection. He encourages them to take up golf and other athletic sports. There is an unwritten law in his companies against drastic reducing, and the girls are told to avoid ill-balanced diets. "We prefer the well-rounded form," says Mr. White, "for there is little beauty in the too slender form. For this reason our girls are warned to keep away from silly reducing fads which deplete a girl's vitality and mar her beauty."

WILMOT PIRATES
WIN GAME WITH
GIRL CHAMPIONS

The Taylor Trunks, U. S. girls' champion basketballers, were defeated by the Wilmot Pirates, 36-26, in the Wilmot gymnasium Tuesday evening. The girls played a good game, but the superiority in the height of the boys, coupled with their proven basketball skill, won a victory for the Pirates, who will now enter the Wisconsin state amateur basketball tournament at Green Bay. The first games will be played in the West De Pere gymnasium Monday evening. The town team played a preliminary game with the Pirate seconds and were defeated, 34-12.

AGED SALEM WOMAN PASSES AWAY AT HOME

Orlando Foster, A Former Resident, Dies at Fond du Lac

Mrs. Edwin Wilcox, aged 84, died at her home here Monday, following a short illness from pneumonia. She was born January 18, 1847, at Pankow Province, Brandenburg, Germany. She was united in marriage to Frank Sommers and they came to this country fifty years ago and settled on a farm at Twin Lakes. Mr. Sommers died March 17, 1907. In September, 1910, she married Edwin Wilcox and lived at Fox River for a short time, coming to Salem eighteen years ago. She is survived by her husband and one daughter, Mrs. Nathan Dix, five grandchildren and six great-grandchildren. Funeral services were held in the Salem M. E. church Wednesday, March 18, at 2 p. m., with Rev. Carl Stromberg officiating.

Mrs. Olive Mutter received word Sunday morning of the death of her brother-in-law, Orlando Foster, Saturday, at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Ed Frank, of Fond-du-Lac. He had been in failing health for several years. He was born in the old Foster farm house on Geneva Road, in Salem township, June 13, 1846, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Foster. He was united in marriage to Frances Clark, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Clark, November 23, 1871. They resided in the village of Salem several years, where he worked at the carpenter trade. Fifty-two years ago this summer he superintended the building of the present M. E. church. He and his wife moved to Silver Lake, where they kept a furniture store. In April, 1901, they moved to Phillips, remaining there about a year, then going to Fond du Lac, where he again took up carpenter work. His wife passed away in January, 1928. He is survived by two sons, Edmund Foster, of Stevens Point, and Paul Foster, of La Grange, Ill.; one daughter, Mrs. Edwin Frank, of Fond du Lac; one brother, Julian Foster, of French Drive, Kenosha; six grandchildren, and three great-grandchildren. Funeral services were held at the M. E. church here at 1:30 p. m., Wednesday, Rev. Carl Stromberg officiating. Interment is in the Salem Mound cemetery.

Mrs. Fred Stephens and Miss Ida Stephens went to Chicago Wednesday to attend the funeral of their cousin, Mr. Beebe.

Henry Gitzlaff was taken to a Kenosha hospital Thursday afternoon for treatment of sinus trouble.

Dr. Guy Runkle, of Baltimore, Md., came Friday to visit his grandmother, Mrs. Lucia Stocker, a 93-year-old lady who fell March 7 and broke her leg just below the hip.

Mrs. Granby Minnis and Miss Kate Galles, of Kenosha, called on Mrs. Lucia Stocker, Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Evans, Mrs. Ada Huntton, Howard Johnson, and Rev. and Mrs. Carl Stromberg drove to Union Grove Wednesday evening to attend the county Y. M. C. A. dinner. About thirty ladies attended the Priscilla meeting at the Gookin-Root home Thursday afternoon.

Harry Root, Rosie Helbert, Eloise Campbell and Katherine Barthell are sick with the mumps.

Mr. and Mrs. Alex Smith and daughters, of Bristol, visited Mr. and Mrs. John Evans Sunday.

Paul Foster and son, Winfield, of La Grange, Ill., called on their aunt, Mrs. Olive Mutter, Sunday.

The second quarterly conference of the M. E. church was held at the parsonage Sunday afternoon. Dr. and Mrs. Spray, of Janesville, attended. Official board members present were Mrs. Eli Hartnell, of Twin Lakes, Mrs. John Evans, Mrs. Byron Patrick, Mrs. Olive Mutter, and Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Cook.

TIMELY TOPICS BY ANTIOCH PEOPLE

By PHILIP T. BOHI
The Meaning of Lent.

Lent is a product of the early Christian church. It was organized in the period of the church's greatest struggle for recognition. Lent is that season of the year which has been set aside for special consideration of the passion of our Lord, and comprises the forty-six days preceding Easter.

Like many other things, Lent had a small beginning and has enlarged itself. At first, it was celebrated as a 1-day fast, then two days, then three days. In the third century, the Lenten fast was made to cover the six days of Holy Week, the week so full of the deepest experiences of Jesus. In the fourth century, the season of Lent was extended to forty days. This period was determined largely by the fact that Jesus, Moses, and Elijah had all fasted for forty days.

While Lent is not fixed by divine revelation, through all these sixteen centuries it has been accepted by the majority of the followers of our Lord as a time of renewal of faith in the Divine Power, and for entering into a larger and deeper spiritual life.

Lent does not deal with the subtraction of life. If we merely deprive ourselves during Lent of certain more or less desirable things, only to over-indulge after the close of this period, we have not benefited by it. In a larger sense, Lent had to do with additions to life. If certain things are given up during Lent, it is only that better, deeper, richer things may take their place. The recognition of this season is for the purpose of drawing us near to God, for special acts of charity, for giving up such things as may tend to draw the heart away from God, and for the deepening of our spiritual lives.

The soul of man needs this season of quiet for its growth in wisdom and stature. Life demands that there shall be times of special endeavor. The heart needs extended seasons for prayer and meditation. During this season it is easiest to form the habit of doing all things by some other motive than self-glorification.

During our Lenten meditations it is not without profit for us to "examine ourselves," as one of the New Testament writers has suggested. This is almost a lost art of the American civilization. We live too fast. There are no many things about us that hold our gaze of affection. We haven't time to examine ourselves. We take it as a matter of course that our moral health will be preserved without concern or effort on our part.

Some of the following questions may be worth consideration as a part of the Lenten meditations. Where do I rank when it comes to doing what I know I should? Have I been leaving undone some things I know I should do? Am I a slave of procrastination, which is "the thief of time"? An old man once was asked, "Have you taken your stand for Christ and united with a church?" His answer was, "Not yet." In other words, he expected, to sometime, but had put it off these many years. I was once called upon to baptize an old man, past 80, and blind. All his life from his youth he had expected to obey his Lord in this command, but had just put it off.

Another question: Have I done what I know to be right by my neighbors, my children, and by righting the wrongs I have committed? What do I weigh when it comes to returning good for evil? Do I consider revenge sweet? How strong am I when facing temptation? Am I an easy victim of my besetting sin?

Is self service the primary motive of my acts of labor? It was said of Saul that he was head and shoulders taller than everyone else. How about my sincerity with others? Is my life a mere sham of pretension and make-believe?

And what about my patience? Someone has written, "Have patience with circumstances. Have patience with yourself. Have patience with others, and have patience with God." Patience should be one of the first virtues of a parent, and, without doubt, shines among the brightest of the Christian virtues.

The observance of this Lenten season will be of great value to all who will make it an occasion of self-examination, accompanied with an honest effort to more nearly attain that perfect ideal of life given us by our Master.

EVERY SLOW-VAPORIZING, LAZY PARTICLE

Now . . . science's new, perfected anti-knock fuel!

Super-Shell Ethyl is different. It contains Ethyl fluid, of course—a generous charge that assures positive anti-knock value. But with this is now blended a special gasoline.

Shell engineers developed it. They knew that inferior gasoline—no matter what was added—doesn't deliver best performance in your car. They set out to make anti-knock fuel utterly free of slow-firing, harmful, "heavy" gasoline particles. Months of experiment . . . then they succeeded!

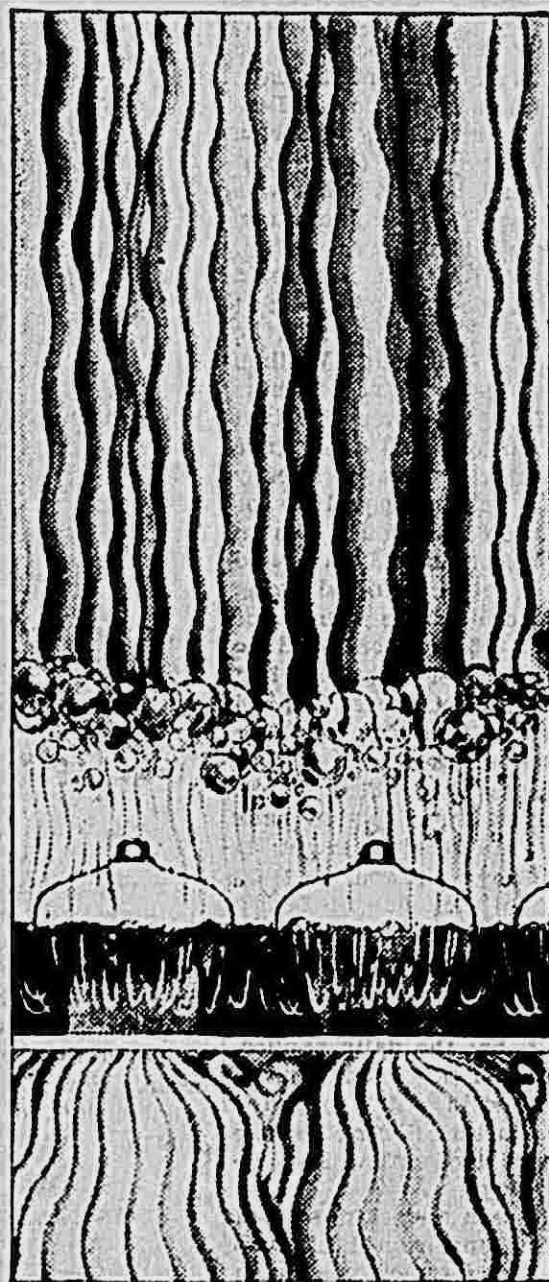

It is a matter of "washing" the gasoline in a series of huge refining towers where the gasoline vapors travel over Shell's amazing system of "hubble cap trays." Here all the harmful, heavy "fractions" so often left in gasoline are "scrubbed" out.

Into a special pipe flows only the volatile, lively gasoline which Shell blends with Ethyl fluid!

Thus Super-Shell Ethyl gives you finest engine operation. Quick starting. Smooth, even power. High anti-knock value.

Now . . . see what really fine performance your motor is capable of giving. Try this new Super-Shell Ethyl today. One test will convince you.

Some women have the happy knack of having their rooms always looking as if they had just been housecleaned. And others have not that knack. There are various reasons for both conditions, but with March practically gone, it is time to consider the housecleaning question again.

How do you manage the process? Do you suddenly become inspired, dive headlong into the job, oblivious to everything until you finally emerge from the chaos which you produced for your family to wallow in during the anguishing period? Or do you do one room at a time, one week, and perhaps never finish?

Do you become disgusted with the shabbiness of your furnishings when the bright spring sunlight scouts around in all the corners, and long for the whorlwhirl of new ones? Or, on the other hand, are you blind to the obvious need for changes of various kinds?

Changing Furniture.

There is the type of housekeeper who is forever changing the position of the furniture, until the other members of the household are never certain to which end of the room their toes will point at night. Again, there are those plodding souls whose imagination has become dulled to what might be, and they allow the years to pass without a thought of rearranging to better convenience or appearance the articles of furniture.

What Does It Need?

When the housecleaning bee begins to buzz, it is time to take stock of one's finances, to determine what can be spent for new things for the house. Next, an impartial survey of the home's "crying needs," then a discrim-

An April 1 Dinner

WE are all familiar with the April Fool dinners in which none of the foods are what they seem but some harmless substitute without any taste. Why not fool them this April with a dinner in which things are not what they seem but everything tastes better than usual instead of the worse? Here are a few examples of the kind of dishes we mean:

Mock Caviar Sandwiches: To one small can of anchovy paste, add one teaspoon dried parsley, one-half teaspoon lemon juice, one clove of garlic and one teaspoon olive oil. Cut off the end crust of a loaf of sandwich bread, and butter the bread before slicing. Have the butter very soft so as not to break the bread. Then cut off a slice as thin as possible.

inating selection of the worst need.

This year, with prices below normal times, would be a good time for the purchase of a carpet to displace that faded, worn, or threadbare floor covering. Perhaps the stuffing is oozing from that easy chair, which, though comfortable, is the one disfiguring spot in the room. There are other comfortable, easy chairs in the world, just wishing to be put into a room to cheer up a rug that must be tramped upon for two or three more seasons.

The Smaller Touches.

There are less expensive things than rugs or chairs to transform your rooms after housecleaning. A coat of paint or varnish on floor, woodwork, and furniture can erase a multitude of blemishes. Fresh, clean wall paper can change the entire atmosphere of the room. Bright, new chair coverings, and a new cloth for the living room table, have a flair for discouraging drabness.

Among the touches which prove beyond doubt that a room is alive, clean and well cared for, are the window curtains. Dainty new dimity curtains for the bedrooms and kitchen, sewed with clever tucks and tie-backs, can do more to freshen up a room than any other one small thing.

Other suggestions for this year's housecleaning are: Re-arrange the pictures; polish up the book-ends; repaint, or buy new lampshades; and place some healthy green plants in the windows.

Can't You Visualize
Tender Asparagus
Floating In Milk?The Time Has Come to Map
Out Your Vegetable Garden

The first of April will soon be here, bringing its associated thoughts of April showers, budding trees, and the smell of the moist earth.

It's high time to be planning for the delicious melting peas, swimming in milk!

A garden's benefits and beauty have been extolled by poets and practical alike, but if one does not care about a garden, he might just as well attempt to make one for a weedy, straggling garden has neither beauty nor food value.

There is an old saying among farmers that early potatoes should be planted on Good Friday. Guess we'll have to stir our stumps around and get a few soaked and cut and planted in rich soil on level ground.

Early Vegetables.

Radishes, green onions and lettuce, if planted early, are usually ready in May or early June. To lengthen the period for green peas, one should reserve two extra rows for second and third plantings, which should be about three weeks apart. Best greens can be served early in the season, and shortly after, the first tender beans. Then follow carrots, string beans, lima beans, cabbage and turnips.

Unless your family is inordinately fond of lettuce, so that the row of leaf lettuce is constantly kept cut, it would be well to plant a small amount at first, reserving room for later plantings.

Later Plants.

A row or two of sweet corn, a nice plot for tomatoes, and a row of parsnips for winter and spring use, will complete the garden, unless you have enough space to chance the ripening of watermelons and muskmelons. A few summer squash and pumpkins may be planted in one of the rows of early peas or lettuce, out where the sun will reach them.

The majority of gardens lack an asparagus bed. Those who are acquainted only with the store variety of asparagus, do not know that they are missing one of the greatest garden treats. Once a bed is started it can

FOR SPRING DAYS

Styles in dresses for growing girls still retain their youthful brevity, although the upper leg and kneecap are covered. This little frock of monotone silk boasts the popular circular skirt, and clever tabs which give the dress a high waisted effect. The light collar and cuffs lend a touch of spring.

If Mother is planning on making two or three spring dresses for her daughter, this is a suggestion for a dress which is dressy without being too fussy. Of course, daughter will also want a frock in a gay printed goods, one that is suitable for play, but is relieved of the dull color of her winter play dresses. Later in the season, very inexpensive and becoming dresses can be made from tub silks, figured in bright designs.

be kept for years and years—the main thing is to use it. The oftener the plans are cut in the early part of the summer, before they show too strong a determination to go to seed, the faster and more tender will be the stalks.

Flowers as Borders.

Every woman loves a flower garden, but many of them think that a vegetable garden lacks beauty. It need not. Why not plant the flowers in front of the vegetables, with a fence of sweet peas at the end of the garden as a background? The giant cosmos plants make lovely borders.

What is more satisfying than the appearance of a garden in early summer, when all the plants are lush, with straight rows spaced by gleaming dirt, free from weeds?

It formerly was an accepted practice among housewives to arrange plates of floral designs or otherwise on wall panelings which encircled the dining room. Houses were sometimes recalled by childish minds by particular brightly colored plate which had attracted their attention.

This custom is not frequently seen today, except in the homes of those who use it in harmony with their "period" furnishings, or the very old-fashioned, who cling to it as the only means of wall decoration, or because their ancestors used it, or for worship of the plate itself.

A careless arrangement of dishes within the china closet, or cupboard, nevertheless, is not excusable. Even though the cupboard be a closed one, a hostess must sometime open it in the presence of guests, and then what embarrassment ensues if a jumble of handleless cups, glasses, plates of various sizes, and china not even slightly related, meets the eye.

Shelf papers, obtainable in lacy patterns, or more sturdy designs, polished glassware, and clean and varnished woodwork add greatly in the effect of beauty and harmonious arrangement.

TOPPY'S TRAVELS

Synopsis: Topsy leaves home to follow his canary. After many adventures, he and his friends, Mr. Frog and Toy, the dewdrop, cause the Cushions to fight the Pillows, their enemies. Thus they hope to rescue their Cloud-Queen, whose land is invaded by the Pillows. Topsy and Mr. Frog enter a secret room with a pool, into which they dive, and keep walking through a tunnel, led by the key to the room. Continue.

After trudging for a long time through the tunnel, they reached the stairs. "We must be nearly to the end!" Topsy exclaimed excitedly. He hurried forward, Mr. Frog hopping beside him. The stairs were not steep, but there were so many of them, and Topsy became tired.

"I'd like to rest," he complained, expecting a scolding, but to his amazement, Mr. Frog, who was puffing loudly, said, "Just as you say."

The boy halted and tried to sit down on the stair, but instantly he jumped up, and went on. "Something pulls me. I have to go on," he apologized to Mr. Frog, who really was very tired.

He walked slower and slower, to allow Mr. Frog to keep up with him. "Will we never reach the top?" he groaned.

"Of course," barked the Frog. "There has always been an end to everything so far, hasn't there?"

This thought gave Topsy comfort, and he plodded steadily on. Daylight filtered down from a great distance, and threw fantastic shadows upon the stairs.

"We are almost there, we are almost there," chanted Topsy in glee.

Even Mr. Frog smiled grimly. And yet, the stairs stretched on, upward and on, for a long distance. The weary feet of the boy and the frog lifted up and down, until they heaved their heads again.

Topsy sat down suddenly. Mr. Frog also sat, looking out upon the top step. Topsy rose, pushed with all his strength against the glass, but it did not move. He hit it with both his fists, but it did not break.

Hearing voices on the other side, he drew back. He did not want to run into any enemies, just now, when he was so tired, so he lay as still as possible.

The voices on the other side of the glass grew clearer, and a face bent over it, but the glass was thick, and Topsy could not tell what kind of a person it might be. Then many faces crowded over the glass, and there was great excitement and talking.

A voice, very faint, but as distinct as the blue of a gemstone, came to the ears of the listeners.

"Who are you?" it said.

"Shall I answer?" Topsy whispered nervously.

"Wait a minute. They know there is someone here, so that can't be helped. Ask them who they are, and if they are not Pillows, we will introduce ourselves," replied Mr. Frog, sagely.

"First tell us who you are," Topsy called.

After a pause, during which low murmuring was heard, the same voice said, "I am the Cloud-Queen."

Topsy, in his amazement, nearly tumbled off his step. But Mr. Frog took the news coolly. "Tell her who we are, why take so long?" he growled.

So Topsy, trying to keep his voice steady, called, "It is Topsy and Mr. Frog. How can we get out of here?"

"General Topsy!" several voices exclaimed. "He must have the key!"

"Have you the key, Topsy?" asked the Queen.

"Yes, I have it," Topsy was all excited.

"Then move to the left, search along that side until you find the keyhole."

Topsy did as he was directed, and there in the corner was a very tiny keyhole.

A TOUGH DAY FOR WALRUS HUNTERS

It was th' day after th' skipper had his adventure with th' polar bear that he decided to go walrus huntin'. Perky Swipes, one of th' crew, said he'd killed lots of walruses, so Perky went along with th' skipper and me to demonstrate.

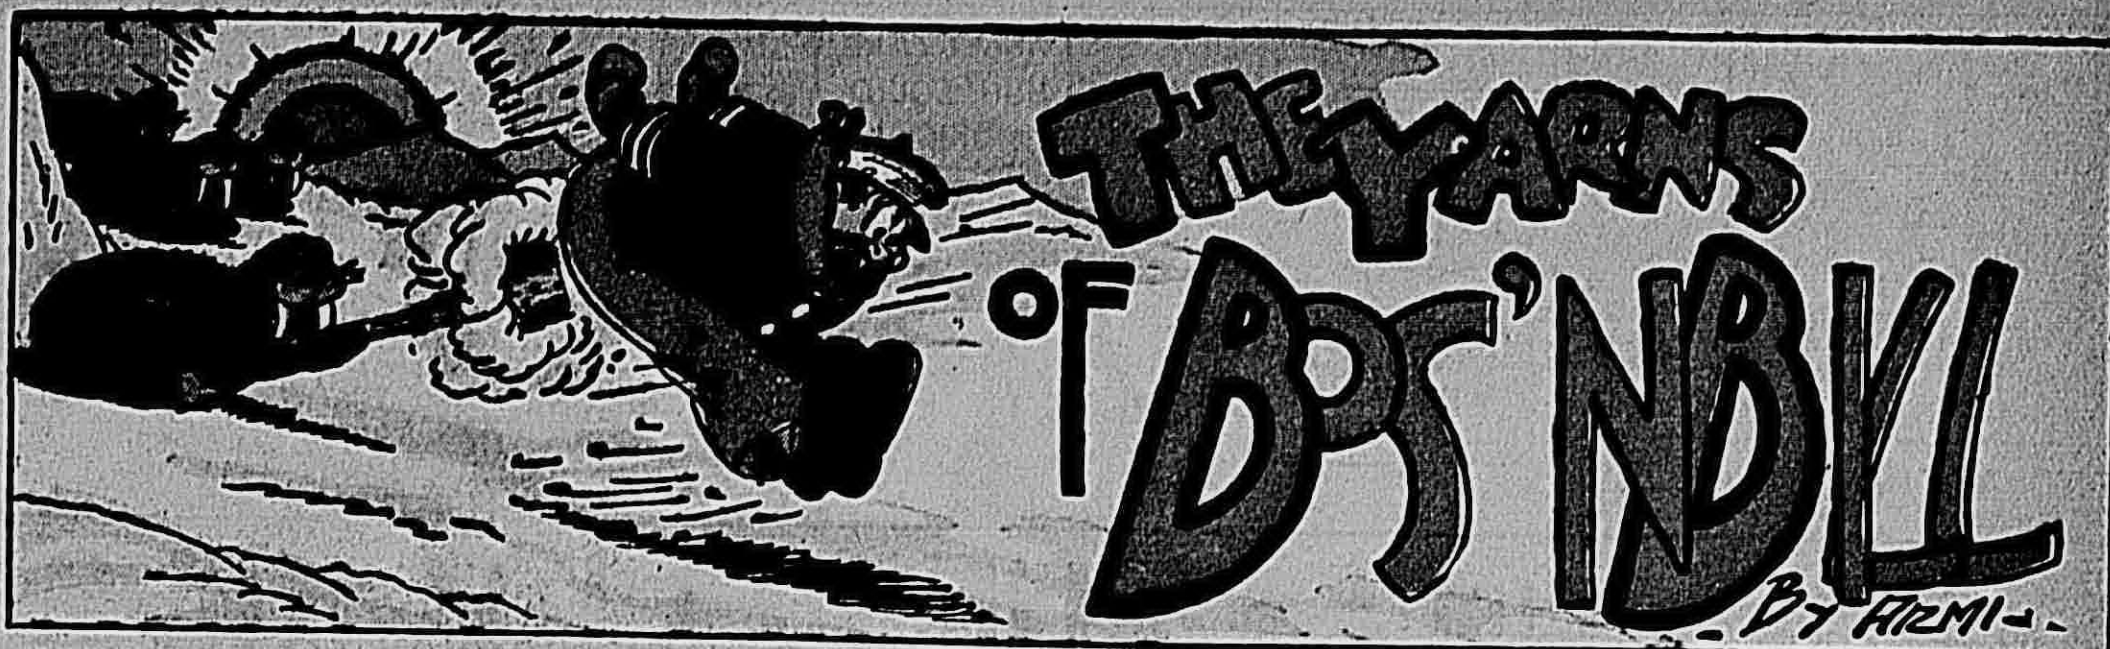

Everything would have gone off shipshape and Bristol fashion if th' skipper hadn't wanted to capture a baby walrus to take back to San Francisco.

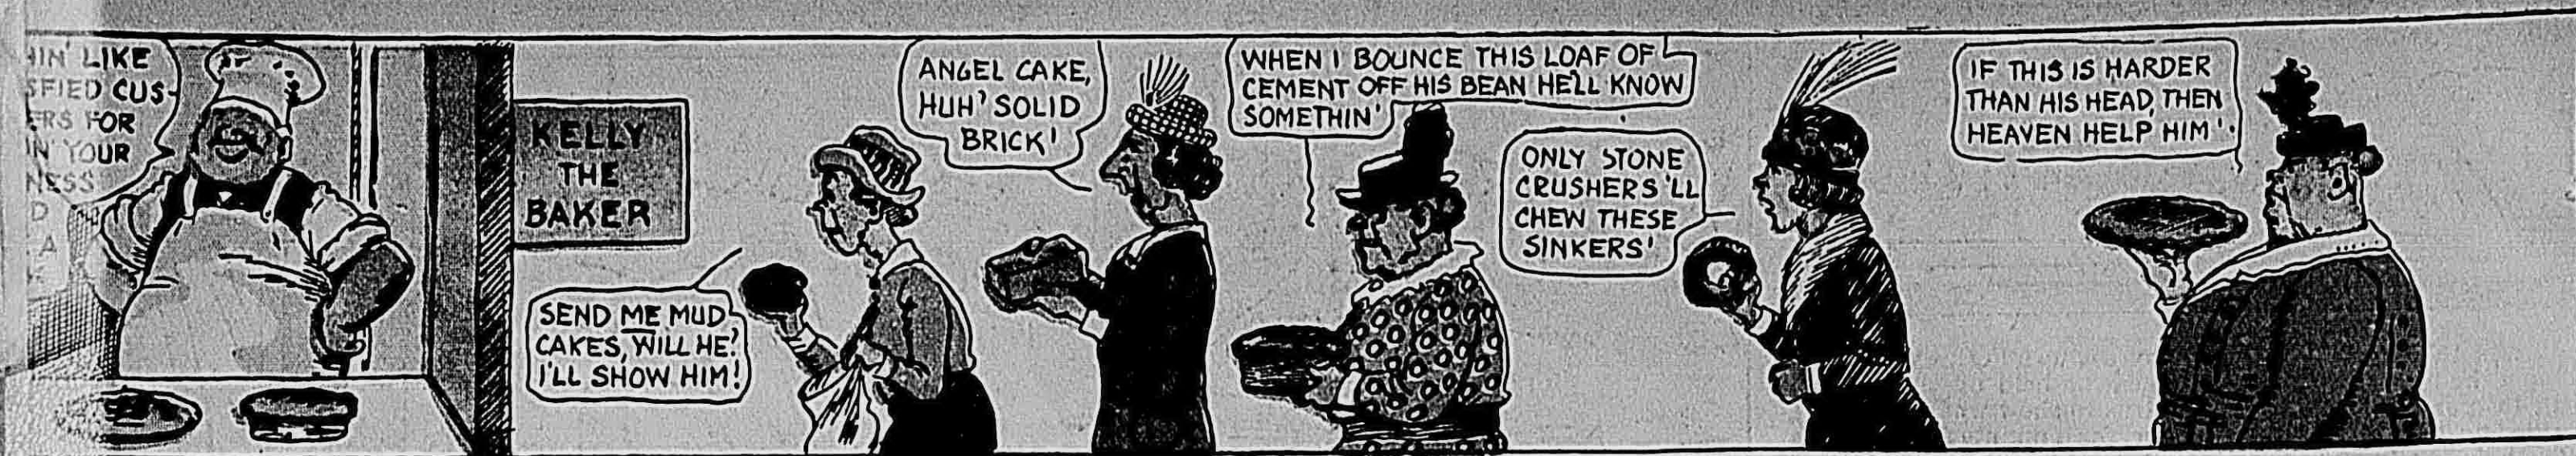

Well s'r, we'd got well into th' ice-fields, and were skidin' a strip of open water, when Perky spotted a whoppin' big mamma-walrus with a little one by her side. Right from there was where th' fun began. Slip-pin' along on his hands and knees, Perky crept closer, and closer to th' little walrus that was playin' around on th' ice. Watchin' his chance, Perky leaped and grabbed th' little feller. Wow, what a yowpin' that baby set up! Perky was so tickled he held up th' baby walrus to show what he had done, for a minute forgettin' about mamma walrus.

Wham! Mamma landed on Perky, and that gent went sailin' into th' air. A herd of walruses holdin' a meetin' over near th' water heard th' rumpus and came over to get in their licks.

Well s'r, things were be-ginnin' to get interestin' around there. There we were, surrounded by a yow-pin' herd of mean-eyed walruses, except for th' strip of open water, which we knew was colder'n a miser's heart. But into it we went. Ow, it makes me shiver now when I think about it. For some reason th' walruses didn't follow us into th' water, but stopped at th' shore-line and gave us a walrus-laugh as we scrambled out on th' other side. That was all th' walrus hunting we wanted that day.
